

Amie Fehily

Commercial Director

My role within the business is Commercial Director, working closely with the other Directors to ensure the successful running and continued growth of the business. My background is in Quantity Surveying and the heart of what I love to do is to develop and implement commercial strategies based on our company goals and objectives whilst supporting and accelerating growth within the business.

I work closely with all parts of the business particularly our Managing Director, Commercial, Financial and Operational departments to ensure the successful management of our project's finances, project's profits, timescales and budgets and company pipeline.

I am extremely proud of LMF's continued growth and progression and our commitment to helping people in fuel poverty. We are dedicated to being an integral part of the delivery of Net Zero in the UK and are passionate about being one of the country's leading energy efficiency specialists and installers.

LMF is very much a team effort and I am extremely proud and grateful for our whole team as without them this would not be possible. We as directors like to promote a collaborative, hard working and inclusive workplace culture and believe this is a key driver to our success.

I am so excited to see what the coming years will bring for our business. Looking back on our journey so far I am sure it's going to be a busy, exciting and fulfilling ride for team LMF!
